

Home Activities for Senior Infants (Monday 29th March - Friday 3rd April)

Dear Parents,

I hope you and all the children are keeping safe and well. I miss them all and hopefully it won't be too long before we are back to the classroom again. Below are some activities for Senior Infants for this week. These are only suggestions and you may wish to continue with whatever is already working for you at home.

I understand that it is an already stressful and worrying time for everyone. Spending a small bit of time each day on school activities is adequate for this age group and there may even be some days you do not get a chance to do school activities. Just remember that no child will fall behind, they have worked hard since September, the work set out below is revision work and the new activities are fun. The children should be able to easily work through most of it on their own/ with little help.

A unique code has been sent to every Senior Infant parent who responded to the school text and emailed the school with consent to participate with the seesaw learning app. Please email school if you have access to the internet, a suitable device and wish to be included. I would love to see some of the wonderful work you are doing but most importantly keep yourselves and your families healthy and well during the next few days.
